WARREN'S
COUGH BALSAM
Has been found, by experience, to be the Best Remedy for the various Diseases of the Lungs and Throat, such as Diphtheria,
Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption, Croup, Influenza, Pleurisy, Pneumonia or Inflammation of the Lungs, and Whooping Cough
IN these complaints this Medicine has NO SUPERIOR, and while thus efficacious, it is perfectly SAFE to administer to persons of all ages
At all times of the year this Balsam is found useful, especially in the Autumn, Winter and Spring; and many Colds and Coughs, which, if neglected, might prove fatal, may be CURED at once by a few doses of this invaluable remedy.
This Cough Balsam possesses the two-fold advantage of being at once valuable as curative and invaluable as a preventive of all the diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchia.
In DIPHTHERIA this Balsam has proved itself an especially efficacious When given at the first onset of the Pestilence, it checks it at once, and in many cases, is believed by those who have used it, to have saved their lives.
In ASTHMA, however violent and distressing, this Balsam gives prompt relief
In BRONCHITIS and PNEUMONIA it relieves the irritation, loosens the Cough, and promotes a favorable expectoration.
In CROUP its powers are almost magical. This insidious disease, coming literally "like a thief in the night," may be speedily and effectually arrested by a few timely doses of this Balsam.
In WHOOPING COUGH it moderates the paroxysms, prevents the disease from assuming its severe and dangerous form, and shortens its course
Every family should keep it in the house, and thus avoid the dangerous delay occasioned by sending out for the medicine when needed for immediate use
The best recommendation for a good medicine is found in its use. If the following certificate, from one who has used it, does not give you confidence in it try one bottle for yourself, and you will be convinced. It will cost you but twenty-five cents, and may save you as many dollars in time and doctors' bills

Full Particulars OF THE Terrific Fight at Charleston

The Rebel Forts Considerably Damaged.

Two Embrasures in Fort Sumter Knocked into One.

The "Devil" not Captured by the Rebels.

BALTIMORE, 12th.

Gunboat Flambeau arrived at Old Point, Saturday afternoon, bringing the officers of the ironclad Keokuk, which was disabled in the engagement at Charleston, and sunk the next day

From the participants in the engagement we gather the following interesting particulars:

The fleet, after leaving Hilton Head, rendezvoused in the mouth of the Edisto

Several days were occupied in gathering the vessels and making final arrangements, issuing orders, and otherwise arranging for the great combat. All being completed, the fleet left in detachments, and assembled off Charleston, on Sunday, the 5th.

The iron-clad fleet crossed the bar and entered Charleston harbor on Monday.

The Keokuk drawing less water than any of the others, was sent in first to find the channel and replace the buoys

Proceeding up the ship channel, the Keokuk found easy and unobstructed entrance with full 18 feet of water in the shallowest place, more than has ever before been found on Charleston bar

The buoys were replaced without difficulty, the rebels offering no opposition The Keokuk returned to the fleet.

On the evening of the 7th orders were given for the iron clads to enter the harbor and the order was to proceed in single file or in line ahead. The Weehawken was the leading vessel, having in front a scow, and then between the scow and herself Ericsson's torpedo exploder, or "devil," as it has been called The Ironsides, with Admiral Dupont on board, was the 5th in line and the Keokuk last

In this order the Bar was passed in safety, without detention. The order given to the commanders of the various vessels was to keep straight up the harbor until they came within 1000 yards of the forts and then to attack, directing their efforts principally upon Fort Sumter.

On this order the fleet moved steadily and gallantly up towards Forts Sumter and Moultrie, the rebels withholding fire until they got well up into the harbor.

The Ironsides stopped off Fort Moultrie and let go her anchor, it being dangerous to take her further up on account of her drawing over 15 feet

At this moment there seemed to be a temporary misunderstanding, and all the iron clads, except the Weehawken and Keokuk gathered about the Ironsides, apparently supposing she had grounded and needed assistance. They were however, soon recalled to go into action.

The Keokuk had kept onward until she left the line, and had advanced to within 400 yards of Fort Sumter, against whose granite walls she hurled her heavy shot with all the rapidity that the energy of her brave crew could fire with

The rebels, as was expected immediately concentrated their fire on the Keokuk, which assumed the lead in the attack.

From Sumter, Moultrie, batteries Beauregard and Cummings Point, and from a fort erected on the middle ground, the fire of 400 or 500 guns were concentrated in a terrible hail, upon the devoted vessel Such a fire had never, perhaps, in the history of the world been equalled. It was met by the officers of the Keokuk with heroic fortitude, whilst the balls were striking her at the ratio of one every second

Her guns were used with vigor and precision, and their weight and force were already making their work upon the walls of Sumter.

It soon, however, became apparent that she had none of the impregnability of Ericsson's Monitors, and that in fact as an iron clad she was a failure. The rebel balls seemed to penetrate her as easily as a wooden vessel. The port holes or shutters of her turrets became jammed and her guns practically unserviceable During the 30 minutes she remained in this concentrated fire, 100 shots struck her, 90 of which were at water line or such as would cause her to leak in a sea way; in fact she was perfectly riddled Her flag was shot in tatters and the whole of her sides battered, bruised and pierced.

Perceiving these severe injuries she had received, the Admiral signalled her to retire out of action and anchor beyond range This was safely accomplished.

In the meantime the Monitors Nahant and Catskill had moved up to the support of the Keokuk and engaged Fort Sumter The Ironsides and other vessels, at longer range, were dividing their attention between Moultrie and Sumter.

Into the latter fort a heavy fire was thus poured, and it is believed not without effect.

The engagement was kept up from 1 o'clock until 4, when in obedience to the Admiral's signal, the fleet retired slowly, receiving and returning the rebel fire.

They returned and anchored out of range, within the bar.

The Weehawken was assigned an important duty, in the midst of the fight, viz: to examine and if possible force the obstructions which the rebels have extended across the harbor from Ft. Sumter to Moultrie.

Protected by the scow and Devil in front, the Weehawken pushed straight up towards the obstructions. They were found to consist of a network of chains and cables stretched across the harbor, over which it was impossible for her to run without fouling her propeller, and which she found it impossible to force. To this network the rebels are supposed to have suspended torpedoes and other submarine explosives.

Having completed the examination and tested the impossibility of working up the harbor until means are devised for the removal of the obstructions, the Weehawken returned and reported to the Admiral, who ordered the discontinuance of the conflict.

It is believed that the damage done to Fort Sumter by our fire was serious, so far as known. It consisted of 2 embrasures, being knocked into one, and numerous indentions on the walls, which is believed in a few hours more pounding would have converted into a serious breach.

What damage or loss of life is sustained in the interior of the Fort is not of course known, but it is believed to be considerable.

Fort Moultrie was also well hammered, and at least one gun dismounted

Beyond the sinking of the Keokuk, the damage to the iron-clads was very slight, not more than would require 24 hours to repair. They all came out of the combat in fighting trim and able to have continued the conflict, had it been desirable

The Ironsides was hit frequently, but besides having one port shutter injured, was unharmed

Our informant heard of no serious casualties on board any of the vessels except the Keokuk This vessel sunk within about 100 yards from Morris Island beach. She had 18 wounded, two of whom, including Acting Ensign McIntosh, will probably die.

The Devil was not lost, as stated by the rebel despatches.

When the Weehawken returned from the reconnoissance of obstructions, the scow she had in tow broke loose and grounded off Morris's Island, and the rebels thinking it a dangerous affair peppered away at it, thinking it was the Devil or something worse, but our informant assures us the Devil is safe and will yet be made use of against the devilish rebels.

The affair might be summed up thus —We have entered Charleston harbor, made a successful reconnoissance, engaged the rebel forts for three hours, damaged Sumter pretty seriously, lost one vessel and have had a crowning proof of the invulnerability of the Monitor fleet

The foregoing is made up from an interesting account furnished by the Baltimore American, by an eye witness, who was in the fight.

(Evening Despatches to the Times)

Further Particulars of the Attack on Charleston—The Woman Bread Riot in Richmond — Later from Europe— Warlike Rumors in England.

NEW YORK, 13th.

The Tribune's Washington despatch says the iron-clad squadron, convoyed by number of gunboats, arrived off Charleston on the morning of the 5th

The plan of attack was to move the iron-clad squadron up the main ship channel, without noticing any fire from the Morris Island batteries, steer directly to Fort Sumter and engaged its north west face at a distance of six or eight hundred yards, the fire to be aimed at the centre embrasures

The squadron of reserves, consisting of the Canandaigua, Housatonic, Huron, Unadilla and the Wissahicon, was to form outside the bar prepared to come to the support of the iron-clads if necessary.

It was deemed necessary to wait the ebb tide in order to discover more readily the obstructions

The fleet was expected to be able to move to the attack at one P M, but a thick fog had risen concealing the shore lines, the guidance of which the pilots, among whom were three colored volunteers and Robert Small, required for safe steering The Admiral then reluctantly postponed the attack to the next day.

During the day a brigade of General Ferry's division worked its way up to Folly Island, established itself close to the beach and opened communication with the fleet. No portion of the land force got nearer to the point of attack, and all were obliged to play the part of silent witnesses.

Nothing was done during the remainder of the 6th inst.

On the 7th the fog was still thick, but by nine o'clock nearly cleared away

At 15 minutes before 2 o'clock the whole fleet was in motion

At half past 2 o'clock the batteries on Morris' Island had been passed by the first four monitors, without drawing the fire of the enemy.

Shortly before 3 o'clock the Ironsides showed disobedience to her rudder, her bow swinging to the strong ebb tide, and threatened to bring her on to the shoals to her right. She was compelled to come to anchor.

In the meantime the first four monitors had continued on. The enemy allowed the Weehawken to come within 500 yards of Fort Moultrie, when two shots across her bow from this fort opened the action.

The Ironsides got underweigh and approached within 1200 yards of Fort Sumter, when once more she became unmanageable, and was again obliged to drop anchor The monitors ahead of her reached the converging point of the fire from the Cummings Point battery, Fort Sumter, Fort Moultrie, and Battery Bee, a sheet of flame and volumes of smoke, extending from Morris' Island to Sullivan's Island, inaugurated what has been undoubtedly the most terrific cannonade of the whole war, if indeed ever equalled

A perfect torrent of shot and shell poured upon the Monitors, wrapping them sometimes almost entirely in spouts of water.

The Monitors continued on their way replying vigorously from their batteries. They passed the north east face of Fort Sumter, but when they came near its angle with the north western face they made out at a short distance, three distinct lines of obstructions, consisting of floating logs with torpedoes attached, and net-work of cables held perpendicularly in the water by weights

The Patapsco got foul of one and could not work her screws for fifteen minutes, but finally got clear.

A torpedo exploded close to the bow of the Weehawken without damage.

The vessels all steering very heavily through the passages, the lines of obstructions could not be reached. After several vain attempts, the four vessels turned about and steamed down the harbor, all the while sustaining a heavy fire, responding as vigorously as possible.

The Patapsco had her 200-pound Patrott gun disabled by its own recoil early in the action

The turret of the Passaic was bent in, and cramped her 11-inch gun so as to prevent its working Shortly afterward her turret stopped revolving, and she lost all offensive power.

The Ironsides had in the meantime vainly struggled to come close to Fort Sumter. The rebel gunners seeing her condition plied her freely with shot and shell. Her position was such that she could not bring her broadsides to bear until about four o'clock, when she got an opportunity to deliver her fire at Fort Moultrie This was the only offensive demonstration made by her during the action.

When Admiral Du Pont found that he could not readily move the Ironsides, he signalled the four Monitors behind her to pass ahead. In trying to pass the Catskill and Nantucket brushed the Ironsides on the port and starboard sides, but after a while managed to get away.

The Keokuk and Nahant came under the concentrated fires of the forts and batteries at about the time the other four Monitors were turning back. They nevertheless advanced, with their guns at work briskly, past the northeast face of Fort Sumter, until their course was impeded by obstructions. The Catskill, Nantucket and Nahant received the united fire of Fort Sumter and Moultrie.

The Keokuk had steered a little more to the left, and for a while received the fire of Fort Sumter alone. She fired the gun in her forward turret but three times, when it became disabled Her after gun could not be brought to bear effectively. After continuing under the united fires of all the forts and batteries about three quarters of an hour, all the monitors and the Whitney battery came back in obedience to the signal from the flag ship. The Ironsides had already dropped back some distance, and out of the range of Fort Sumter.

At 5 o'clock the entire fleet was out of range, and the action ceased.

The Ericsson raft known as "the Devil" was attached to the bow of the Weehawken, but proved a hindrance, by embarrassing the steering of the Weehawken. The monster torpedoes intended to be connected with the raft, were not used, as they required delicate handling, and fears were entertained as to their success. The Devil was lost the day after the fight, and washed ashore,

It was the intention of the Admiral to renew the fight the next day, but when the reports of the commanders of the iron clads were received, showing that the Keokuk and Passaic were fully, and the Patapsco, Nantucket and Nahant partially disabled, Admiral Dupont determined to desist from the continuance. In the decision he was sustained by the unanimous opinion of the commanders of all the iron clads.

No words can convey an idea of the terrible fire The monitors were hit from 20 to 60 times each, with the exception of the Keokuk, which was struck by not less than 90 shots. Her turrets were penetrated a number of times, and the hull at the water mark showed 19 holes — She only kept afloat by plunging and pumping until next morning, when she sunk on the bar in 10 feet of water, the colors still flying. All on board were saved, but all lost everything they had.

The Ironside was hit from 50 to 60 times without material damage.

The enemy used only shot of the heaviest calibre The most destructive of their missiles were of English manufacture, principally Whitworth's steel pointed projectiles

Eleven large holes, apparently running through the walls, some of which are about three feet wide, were made on the East face of Fort Sumter, showing that our fire was not altogether ineffectual.

The Monitors fired altogether about one hundred and fifty rounds

The numerical weakness of the land force rendered direct co-operation in the attack impracticable.

When your correspondent left the scene of action two monitors had left for Port Royal and the others were to follow

Nahant, Captain Downs, slightly, on leg from bolt; Isaac Sonaffer, pilot, severely, by a bolt, Edward Cobb, Quartermaster, late of the Cumberland, fracture of skull, from bolt, since died, John McAllister, dangerous, in head from bolt

The Herald's despatch from headquarters army of the Potomac, April 11th, says a refugee who left Richmond last Tuesday, has arrived here.

The bread riot in that city was witnessed by him and caused the greatest consternation among the authorities. The women were heads of families, of the working classes, and were actually starving

A repetition of the demonstration is feared and every precaution is taken to avoid it. The effect on the troops is very demoralizing, the men being very clamorous and demanding that their families should be fed

Reinforcements are hurrying up to Fredericksburg as rapidly as possible Most of them are conscripts and convalescents

Earthworks are being thrown up along the Rappidan river Two gunboats, iron clads, are afloat in James River The Virginia lies near Daryea's Bluff, and has made several attempts to pass the obstructions, but failed. A third unfinished, is being rapidly completed.

Well informed persons deny the statement that the large reinforcements sent overland from Newbern had returned. Some of their baggage and artillery is stuck in the mud The rebel forces between Washington and Newbern are reported to number 20,000 under Hill and 7000 under Pettigrew

The steamer Dudley Buck from Newbern 9th, brings the report that it was expected that Gen Foster would have to surrender from want of provisions

The transport Northerner left Newbern on the 7th with 800 men to his assistance by way of Tar River, but meeting a number of rebel batteries she was forced to return. No one was hurt.

Gen Foster's force at Washington consists of 1200 men

On the 5th inst. a force of 8000 men left Newbern by way of Neuse River, under General French, to reinforce Foster, but meeting a superior force of rebels, they returned to Newbern on which place the rebels are marching.

NEW YORK, 13th

The Times publishes an extra containing a detailed account of the Charleston fight. The correspondent says the trial was decisive. The ordeal of two hours served to prove that the defensive powers of the iron fleet were sufficient to withstand the terrible force of the offensive works

The Passaic received 25 or 30 wounds, the most extraordinary shot from a 10 inch rifled projectile, which struck the top of the turret, scooping out a huge portion of the iron, breaking all of the 11 plates of an inch thickness each, on the pilot house, on the top of the turret, in which it made a crater 8 inches deep and raised the pilot house three inches.

Another shot hit the turret, forcing the plates, struck inward and crushing the carriage of the 11-inch gun by the shock, while a portion of the interior iron casing fell, lodging in the groove of the turret, stopping its revolution.

The Nantucket had her turret so jarred that that the cover of one of her ports could not be opened, and consequently her 11 inch gun could not be used.

The other Monitors received more or less shots, but were not disabled.

CINCINNATI, 13th.

Gen Burnside has issued an order pronouncing the penalty of death on all persons found guilty of aiding the rebels. Persons sympathizing with the rebels will be arrested and tried or sent beyond the lines. The order says it must be distinctly understood that treason, expressed or implied, will not be tolerated in this Department.

which was captured by the Federals and taken to Key West, has been released, and it is believed that the Peterhoff will be released on the same warrant.

The Evening Herald says that rumors are afloat in some circles that the Government at Washington intends laying an embargo on British ships and property as a measure of retaliation for the depredations of the Alabama, and that this embargo will be enforced against British ships and property without any declaration of war against England.

The taking of that step would therefore devolve on England.

Mr Seward will, it is said, quote an English precedent for this step, Lord Palmerston having in the year 1862, blockaded the Dutch coast and laid an embargo on Dutch shipping, without making declaration of war.

The Morning Post says that so far as it knows the case of the Peterhoff is not likely to assume any alarming aspect, and it is not true that additional force is to be dispatched to the West India waters. The case will be promptly adjusted. If Wilkes was right, there will be nothing to complain of. If in the wrong the owners will be promptly indemnified.

In the House of Commons on the 27th Mr Foster asked whether the Government's attention had been directed to the danger of England's friendly relations with the United States, owing to the fitting out of ships of war for the Confederates in English ports, in contravention of the foreign enlistment act. He reviewed the case of the Alabama, and thought the House was bound to inquire into the Government's delay in that matter, more especially as he believed other vessels were fitting out.

The Solicitor General asserted that the charge of the American Government was most unfounded. He warmly defended the conduct of the British Government, and retorted that the American Government had not always respected neutrality when our interests were concerned.

Lord Palmerston expressed regret at the tone of some of the speakers, but said it was nevertheless a fact that when the American Government found itself in difficulties, it raised a cry against England to create political capital. It was a dangerous game, but it would not make England overstep the law.

He asserted that the Government had done all in its power to enforce the law. He believed that if they had seized the Alabama, nothing beyond suspicion could have been found against her. The Government would be glad if neither vessels were built nor shipments made to the belligerents. He could assure the House that when grounds were shown, the Government would not be slow to enforce the law honestly and impartially.

The Attack upon Charleston.

Fuller accounts of the attack upon Charleston (which may be found in our paper of to-day, from the despatches of last evening) show that the further prosecution of the enterprise has been postponed for the present. The principal object of the movement of Tuesday seems to have been to ascertain by a reconnoissance in force up the harbor, whether the obstructions in the channel were of such a nature as to be speedily removed by the means in hand, and if so, to make a strong attempt upon Fort Sumter, and at the same time to push on part of the fleet and open fire upon the city itself. It was found, however that the obstructions could not readily be removed—and after enduring for nearly an hour, with comparatively slight damage, the terrific and concentrated fire of 300 or 400 of the heaviest guns known in modern warfare, the whole fleet retired. The Whitney iron-clad Keokuk was the only vessel seriously injured, and she sank, from the effects of some twenty shots which penetrated her hull near the water line. Iron-clads of that description must therefore be considered a failure. The Ericsson Monitors came out of the fight without any of them being penetrated by a single shot—although the turret of the Passaic was bent in one or two places, so as to obstruct the working of her 11 inch gun. It is clear that the fire of the forts, tremendous and unparalleled though it was, could not have prevented the passage by the iron clads and the destruction of the city. Whether the obstructions in the channel can be removed by any means yet to be brought in play remains to be seen. An enterprise of this magnitude is not to be successfully carried through in a day or a week. If Charleston can be taken after a siege of months, fortified and protected as it is, it will be one of the most brilliant exploits of the century. The allied French and English fleets and armies spent nearly a year before Sebastopol, and its capture was then considered a splendid success.

BRINGING IN THEIR COTTON. One evidence that the rebels are getting fairly starved out for want of means in some sections, is to be found in the fact that they are sending cotton into our lines quite freely, and that this kind of marketing appears to be in some measure winked at by the confederate officers, or else they are remarkably blind. This contraband cotton trade is rapidly increasing, and will continue to increase as the prospects of the establishment of the "Confederacy" grow more and more faint. A recent number of the New Orleans Era says, that during a single week over two thousand bales of cotton came into our lines in that Department. Twelve hundred bales were received at Baton Rouge, and eight hundred bales came across the Lake to Hickok's Landing. Most of this had been carefully concealed for months, the owners awaiting an opportunity to escape with it, where they could find a market. We used to be told that "the patriots" would burn all their cotton rather than sell it to the 'Yankees!' It would appear that "the patriots" do not all take that view of the case, and we doubt not that the bulk of the planters, whose prospects have been crushed out by the infamous usurpation of the bogus Confederacy, would gladly sell to "Yankees," provided they could get Government or Northern currency. If they burn their cotton, it is done under threats of violence, but in most cases when it is burned, the work of destruction is wrought by lawless bands of robbers, or by the agents of the cabal Government.

HOW THE COPPERHEADS HAVE LOST GROUND. Last fall, Cincinnati went for the democratic ticket by 800 majority. Since that time the copperheads have given some unmistakable glimpses of the cloven foot of resistance to the Government, and the consequence is that Cincinnati goes this spring for the Union ticket by eleven hundred majority. The same change and similar results are seen in many other western cities and towns, and to a large extent throughout the towns of New York. The defeat of the democratic party in New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Connecticut (in the absence of the war or more than the whole Union majority of last year) is also attributable to the same perception by the loyal and patriotic voters of the treasonable proclivities of the democratic leaders.

The New England Annual Methodist Conference, the business of which closed on Tuesday, initiated a new policy which it is thought will be to the advantage of that religious order. The change relates to the old itinerant system, which made the stay of the clergyman with the same society very brief, and consequently interfered with his usefulness among his flock. In some instances the name of the society was changed by the conference, so as to accommodate the wishes of the parish to the rule of the church. The Conference was held at Newburyport.

THE LOYAL NATIONAL LEAGUE. The organization of the "Loyal National League" of this city, takes place this evening at the City Hall. Those who have signed the Union pledge, and those who are willing to do so, are invited to attend. All loyal men of the city, who are disposed to carry out those objects, are expected to be present, and assist in the organization. Arrangements have been made for speaking.

There will be an Exhibition Ball this evening at Mr Lunt's Hall, of his Juvenile Classes, with a social dance for adults after the exhibition. Tickets only 25 cents. Refreshments will be furnished at the hall by Mr Duckworth. The occasion will be a very interesting one.

The warm weather of the past two days has made rapid execution upon the ice, and if it continues, our river will probably be clear in a week. The Kenduskeag is now clear from Drummond's Mill nearly to the mouth of the stream—and in the main river, the ice, which on Saturday was nearly as thick and as strong as at any time during the winter, is now unsafe for passage, even by foot travellers.

A GRAND OPERATIC CONCERT. It will be seen by advertisement that the lovers of good music in this city, are to be favored on Thursday evening with one of Hoffman's delightful Operatic Concerts, with Madame Varian, that charming vocalist, as prima donna; Henry Draper a celebrated baritone singer, and Mr. Hoffman upon the piano, who stands in the first rank of musical performers. It has been long since our people have had an entertainment of this high character, and we have no doubt there will be a large and appreciative audience. Admission tickets are placed at the low price of 25 cents.

THE SOLDIERS' CEMETERY. At a meeting of the Trustees of the Soldiers' Cemetery Fund (for the purchase of a burial ground, and the erection of a monument), held at the Aldermen's Room yesterday, for organization, Franklin Muzzy was chosen temporary Chairman, and Geo W Snow temporary Secretary.

Charles Stetson, Samuel H Dale and B F Bradbury were chosen as an Executive Committee,—Franklin Muzzy, Treasurer—and Geo W Snow, Secretary.

A code of by-laws was adopted, which, among other provisions, constitutes the Mayor of Bangor ex-officio, President of the corporation.

A very interesting concert, vocal and instrumental, was given last evening at the Universalist Church, by Mr Thomas Reeves, the blind musician, who was educated at the South Boston (Perkins) institution, and has been in our city for a few days. The house was crowded, and the audience was highly gratified with the fine execution of the music, showing the wonderful proficiency that may be attained upon the key-board of an organ or piano, by a blind performer. We learn that Mr Reeves intends to remain here for some time, as a teacher of music.

LINNEUS. A correspondent at Linneus, Aroostook county, desires us to correct a democratic denial that the Republicans failed to elect their first Selectman. They elected him by two majority, and also the Moderator—notwithstanding both the Madigan and the Cary men—"Plate and Bread" united against them. Last year, the Cary leaders went into a union with the Republicans, but this year went the Jeff. Davis ticket as the writer says, and yet the Union men are stronger than ever before. He says they can now whip the united traitors any day.

It has been at last discovered that the date of the end of the world is fixed for the year 1886. There is an ancient prediction, repeated by Nostradamus in his "Centuries," which says that when St George shall crucify the Lord, when St Mark shall raise Him, and St John shall assist at His ascension, the end of the world shall come. In the year 1886 it will happen the good Friday falls on St George's day, Easter Sunday on St Mark's day, and Holy Thursday, on Ascension day, will be also the feast of St John the Baptist.

The following sentences have been pronounced by the Court Martial at Portland.

Private Norton of 7th Maine volunteers, guilty of "conduct prejudicial to good order," of selling articles of soldiers' clothing to parties not authorized to buy, has been sentenced to "forfeit to the United States Government six dollars per month of his monthly pay for six months, and be kept at hard labor, with a ball and chain attached to his leg, under a guard, for sixty days."

Private John H Chase, Co K, 7th Maine, was found guilty of desertion and sentenced "to six months hard labor, with ball and chain attached to his leg, on such government works as shall be designated by the commandant of the department, and to forfeit to the government his pay for six months and to wear upon his back a placard marked 'Deserter' for the same period."

Private Edwin Townsend, Co F, 7th Maine, was found guilty of desertion and sentenced to hard labor, with ball and chain, for one year and to wear a placard marked "Deserter."

Private Jasper Peavey, Co D, 7th Maine, tried for desertion, was acquitted.

Gen Wool orders the labor to be performed at either Fort Scammel or Fort Preble, and the prisoners were remanded after the sentence to enter upon their disgraceful employment.

Henry A Dolly, who killed his wife at Fort Fairfield, Aroostook county, in February, and, on the plea of insanity being set up, was sent to the Asylum at Augusta for observation, died in that institution, of hemorrhage of the lungs, on Wednesday last. Dolly made a written statement at the time of the murder, a portion of it written before and a portion after the fatal act. It appears that the design was deliberately entered upon to take the lives of all the members of his family, consisting of a wife and four small children—a design to which his wife agreed—to save them from the supposed evils that would come upon them in the event of their surviving him, but his heart failed in the attempt to carry out the bloody design. He was a man, according to his own confession, of no religious faith, but speaks of his wife and children with marked tenderness.—Press.

SWEET SIMPLICITY. A lady being told a friend wished to see her, desired her little daughter, eight or nine years of age, to say that she was not in. Upon this, the friend being anxious to have an interview, asked the child when her mother would be likely to return. The little thing innocently said "Mamma, the lady wishes to know when you will be in?"

AMERICAN SILVER AT A DISCOUNT IN ST. JOHN. The St John Morning News says American speculators having lately been circulating American silver very extensively through the city, and the banks having refused to receive it for deposit, merchants and the public generally have determined not to receive it except at a discount, and not to receive copper and nickel American cents at all. The value of the American half dollar will hereafter be only 40 cents; the quarter dollar 20 cents; the ten cent piece 8 cents; the five cent piece 4 cents; and the three cent piece 2 cents. The adoption of this course by N B merchants is to deter speculators from exchanging the silver for Bank Notes, and obtaining gold at the banks in lieu thereof, which last named article they take with them to the States, and there obtain a handsome premium on it.

THE REBEL CAPTURE OF FORT SUMTER. It was the 11th day of April, 1861, that General Beauregard demanded of General Anderson the surrender of the fort. The demand having been refused, the bombardment was opened on the 12th, but Sumter did not reply until the morning of the 13th. Its flag was hauled down during the afternoon, and on the following day General Anderson and his men left the city and sailed for New York.

Mansfield's Dispensary says that most of the Sarsaparilla of the shops is inert and worthless. Dr. Ayer in his writings on this drug, states that not only is it inert as found in the shops, but so also are most of the preparations from it, or bearing its name. He shows however, that the fact arises from the use of worthless varieties or unskilful preparations by incompetent men, that the true Medicinal Sarsaparilla (Sarza Smilax off) of the tropics, when freshly gathered in the bud, is one of the most effectual alteratives we possess. Combined with other substances of great alterative power, like Iodine, Stillingia, Dock, &c., it makes Ayer's Comp Ext of Sarsp which we have reason to believe is one of the most effectual remedies for humors, skin diseases, and for purifying the blood which has ever yet been found by any body.—Bangor (Me) Mercury.

That "Grey hairs are honorable in old Age," is a proverbial matter. But are they so in youth? There is no Scriptural averment of that kind, and the common experience certainly does not teach it. If so unfortunate, then, as to loose our hair in early life or middle age, or if it becomes prematurely grey, let us aid the declining or perverted powers of nature, by recourse to innocent and efficacious remedies. Such are Mrs S A Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Hair Dressing, if the testimony of grateful multitudes can be relied upon. Army Correspondence.

From the Department of the Gulf.

An Exciting Chase—Scenes of the Officers in General Banks' Department.

We make the following extract from letters received from Baton Rouge, last week:

AN EXCITING CHASE.

Col. Payne was out with myself and Capt. Magee one day. He had over-hauled under his arm, although he had been in the service some years, and a half, and was spoiling for a fight. By and by we came upon some rebel cavalry; the rebels retreated and we followed. Having seen a good many of these retreats, I put myself at the head of my company and charged down the road at a steady gallop, every man keeping in place. Payne all excitement for the fun, dashed ahead with the advance guard on a run, the first man of them all. We descended a hill at the bottom of which was a bridge and a bayou. It was open fields up the next hill and all through the valley; on the top of the hill there was timber. One of the planks was up in the bridge, and, as the advance guard dashed over one horseman went down. On they dashed, Payne at their head, in his full uniform, with eagles, two rows of buttons and all, a gallant picture, truly, and a splendid mark, up the hill they went.

I was looking all the time at the timber, and felt that Payne stood a narrow chance of his life. Just as my company had two-thirds crossed the bridge, he and the advance guard had reached the top of the little hill. Then came a volley the fwd timber; the ambuscade was there. I gave the head of the column to the right, and had just gained ground enough to charge up the open space before the woods in line instead of column, when back came the advance guard and Payne with them. We were ordered to go back and recross the bridge. At the command it was left about—the men wheeled and went back at a gallop, left in front, until we had recrossed the bridge—when we halted and formed line again. The rebels, thinking we were running away, left the wood and followed us. Then it was our turn, and they went back to the cover of the timber faster than they came out. We killed three and wounded four of them, beside killing and wounding several horses.—One of my men and three horses were wounded, and none killed. It was a wonder that the whole of the advance guard were not killed or wounded. I think Payne saved them. He was such a glittering mark, that the whole of the first volley must have been directed at him. The rebels cheered when they fired, they felt so sure of him. The bullets went around him like hail, but he escaped as if by a miracle. They poked at him more than at the eights of their rifles. He felt, when it was all over, that he had been under fire. If he is in twenty battles he will never be nearer death and not be killed than as was on that day.

CAPTAIN MAGEE

Is well known in this department. Every body knows Jim Magee. He is an Irishman, about twenty-seven or eight years of age—bears the deep marks in his face of small pox—is about five feet ten inches in height—has nice brown curly hair, a pleasant smile and laughing blue eyes. He is a perfect picture of an Irish Dragoon. He is one of the wittiest fellows I ever met; a brave man and accomplished soldier. His company was well all last summer and was the only company of cavalry we then had. The adventures of Magee's cavalry are equal to those in any tale of romance, and he is universally applauded. Magee hasn't much influence at Washington, and has not been promoted, but if merit is ever rewarded, he will obtain a command. He never dallies with newspaper correspondents, or spends his money for newspaper puffs, as one is in the habit of doing, and so is not heard from as often as others.—But Magee's cavalry is on hand where there is work to be done, or danger to be encountered.

COLONEL PAYNE,

Of the 2d Louisiana, (white), is about thirty years of age, of dark complexion with piercing blue eyes that look right into a man. He does not talk much, and is retiring in his habits—He has one of the finest regiments in this department and is in General Dudley's Brigade. He graduated at Harvard in 1854—has lived several years in Europe, and was, before the war, a lawyer. He is rather a handsome, while you would call distinguished looking man; quiet and courteous in his manner, a gentleman, but a disciplinarian. If he lives he will be heard from.

CAPTAIN APPLETON,*

In a whole-souled, enthusiastic soldier, and has moral as well as physical courage. I think he does a praiseworthy thing in taking his colored regiment. He knows it is unpopular in this department; therefore as a gentleman, and a man of standing to step boldly out and take a despised command because he thinks he is doing his country a service by it, is a hero to begin with; and after it is demonstrated, as he will show, if he has time, that colored soldiers will fight, individually and in a line, he is a hero all the way through, physically, morally, and mentally. His friends may be proud of him. I feel honored by his friendship.

LIEUT. GEORGE WEBSTER,†

Like many other deserving young men he does his duty every day. He bears disappointments philosophically and as a gentleman should, and says very little about them. He is here to serve his country. He sees others, his inferiors every way, promoted, when he should be, without a murmur. He has not come here for promotion. When the war is over, if he is alive, he will have done his duty, modestly and without hope of reward. He will, perhaps, then be a minister. He is a study for me—a gentleman and a christian, and withal a disciplinarian, and knows his business. He is one of the few young men who will go home from the war with as good habits as he had when he entered it.

*Capt. John F. Appleton, son of Chief Justice Appleton, of the Supreme Court.
†Son of Mr. John Webster, of this city.

PROCLAMATION OF THE FACULTY INSTITUTION. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial at Lake Providence narrates the following:

"On a large plantation near Lake Providence there lives a wealthy southerner named Georgy Hood. Mr. Hood, though unmarried, is not unmated. He lives in a state bordering, as he thinks, on connubial bliss, with a chattel...

whom he paid $1,600 in New Orleans. Two intelligent looking, black-eyed, black-haired girls, one of them about sixteen years of age, the other about sixteen, are the fruits of this "union." By the laws of the State, in such cases, the children take their status from the mother, so that the two girls are at once Mr. Hood's daughters and his slaves, and he boasts that if this abolition war were not in progress he could get $2,000 apiece for them. Mr. Hood is looked upon as the true type of a southern gentleman. His wealth is so great that his moral shortcomings are, entirely overlooked, and he is received into the best society of the parish as one worthy of acceptance."

In the Seventy-eighth Ohio regiment there is a man who was taken, as a runaway slave, into our lines in Tennessee, a few months ago. His complexion and features denote Anglo-Saxon origin, as pure as there is in any State, North or South to-day. His skin is fair, his eyes blue, his lips thin, and his hair light. His Tennessee "owner" admitted to Colonel Legget, of the Seventy-eighth, that there was not a drop of African blood in the veins of his "slave." He bought him in Richmond, Kentucky, several years ago, and says he was sold into slavery out of some charitable institute to which he had been committed as a vagrant. The man himself appears to know nothing of his parentage or origin. He can neither read nor write, and only knows that he is very glad to have escaped from bondage. This is the clearest case on record of a white man being sold into slavery. The man is now an enlisted soldier in the Seventy-eighth, and the officers of the regiment say he is a faithful and worthy man."

COPPERHEAD CONSPIRACY IN PENNSYLVANIA.

The Knights of the Golden Circle who were arrested at Reading, Pa., on Wednesday, had a hearing in Philadelphia on Thursday. The disclosures made in the testimony of the witnesses are most important, showing that it was deliberately plotted that President Lincoln should be abducted, that a Northwestern Confederacy is contemplated, and that the draft is to be forcibly resisted. The persons under arrest are Philip Huber, Augustus F Illig, Gabriel Fiebel and Harrison Ozenelder. Huber is the prime mover in the organization, of which there are several branches in Berks county.

The principal witness was William G. Lyon, a Government detective. He testified that on the 21st of March he heard there was to be a meeting of copperheads in Marion township, and he concealed himself in the barn of Jacob Zeller, where the meeting was to be held. There were about one hundred men in the barn, who were addressed by Philip Huber, who denounced the war as unholy and unjust; he said the society was a union strong; he stated that it was first organized in the fe ath; that the society had signs, passwords and grips. The obligation was administered to eighty-three of the men, after which the following questions were propounded to them:

"Are you in favor of the abolitication of Abraham Lincoln by force if necessary?

Are you in favor of a Northwestern Confederacy?

Are you in favor of resisting the draft or conscription act?"

Other witnesses corroborated the evidence of Mr. Lyon. After Huber was arrested, he told him that the association was intended for the overthrow of the government, which could be done under the Constitution; that money was raised to fee lawyers if any one of the members were arrested; also to try the constitutionality of the conscription act, and if this wou'd not do they would use force. When the arrest of the above parties became known to Berks and Lebanon counties there was great excitement among the members of the order, who held meetings and decided to send a delegation of the societies to Reading the next morning "or the purpose of rescuing their comrades from the prison."

Accordingly two hundred and eighty farmers living within ten miles of Reading, marched into the city on Thursday morning, creating a great crowd and causing intense indignation and excitement by their traitorous demonstration. They were hooted and mobbed, and only by great exertions on the part of the Mayor and city authorities was a serious outbreak prevented. Later in the day some half dozen members, who were visiting a tavern, were severely beaten and threatened with hanging.

AN ELOQUENT INVOCATION. The following are the concluding paragraphs of the address recently delivered by Hon. Edward Everett before the Union Club at Boston:

Not without deep solicitude, I saw the angry double gathering in the horizon North and South; and I devoted the declining years of my life, with a kind of religious consecration, to the attempt to freshen the sacred memories that cluster round that dear and venerated name which I need not repeat; memories which had survived the multiplying causes of alienation, and were so well calculated to strengthen the cause of Union. To these humble efforts and the time and labor expended upon them—truly a labor of love,—I would, as Heaven is my witness, have cheerfully added the sacrifice of my life, if by so doing I could have averted the catastrophe. For that cause, I should have thought a few careworn and weary years cheaply laid on the altar of my country.

But it could not be. A righteous Providence in its wisdom has laid upon us the performance of this great and solemn duty. It is now plain to the dullest perception, that the hour of trial could not be much longer delayed. The leaders of the rebellion tell us themselves that they had plotted and planned it for an entire generation. It might have been postponed for four years or for eight years; but it was sure in no long time to come; and if, by base compliance, we could have turned the blow from ourselves, it would have fallen with redoubled violence on our children.

Let us then meet it like men. It must be that offences shall come, but wo unto that man by whom the offence cometh. Let us show ourselves equal to the duty imposed upon us, and faithful to the trust to which we are called. The cause in which we are engaged, is the cause of the Constitution and the Law, of civilization and freedom, of man and of God. Let us engage in it with a steadiness and fortitude, a courage and zeal, a patience and a resolution, a hope and a cheer, worthy of the Fathers from whom we are descended, of the country we defend, and of the privileges we inherit. There is a call and a duty, a work and a place for all; for man and for woman, for rich and for poor, for old and for young, for the stout-hearted and strong-handed; for all who enjoy and all who deserve to enjoy the priceless blessings at stake.

Let the venerable forms of the Pilgrim Fathers; the majestic images of our revolutionary sires, and of the sages that gave us this glorious Union; let the anxious expectations of the Friends of Liberty abroad, awakened at last to the true cause and the great issues of this contest; let the heroic spirits of our brethren in the field, and the fresh-made graves of the dear ones who have fallen; let every memory of the past and every hope of the future; every thought and every feeling, that can move the heart, or fire the heart, elevate and purify the soul of a patriot, rouse and guide and cheer and inspire us, to and and if need be, to die, for our country.

A MIXED UP CASE. The Cincinnati Gazette tells the following story: Mrs. Patrick Lyon and Mrs. Heidelbach reside in the same house on Third street, near John, living on the most friendly terms with each other, and enjoying with their respective husbands a life of such connubial felicity and happiness as seldom falls to the lot of women. For some time past it has been evident that Providence, so lavish in its expenditure of bliss on these two happy couples contemplated adding further to their cups of joy by a presentation of "olive branches."—Singular to relate, the presentations took place at the same time on Tuesday night last, but the favors were unequally distributed. Mrs. Lyon at the conclusion of the ceremony, during her self in possession of two smiling cherubs, and Mrs. Heidelbach of but one. Thus far everything went "gaily as a marriage bell;" the joyous fathers were in ecstacies, and the happy mothers were filled with unutterable joy; but as if the fates were determined to mar the pleasure of the scene, an unlooked for difficulty arose which, for a time, put a considerable damper on the spirits of the whole party.

It seems that the nurse who had been employed to officiate on the occasion had, in consideration of the momentous duties she had to perform, imbibed such copious libations of spirits as to become decidedly drunk, in the broadest sense of the term, and when she brought in their babes to show to their expectant paternals, she had got them mixed up in such inextricable confusion that she was unable to tell to which they belonged. This was a blow which they had not expected, and produced a profound sensation in the circle, but the difficulty was at once solved by Patrick, who demanded two of the babies any way, remarked that one of them must be his, and he could decide whether or not the other was when it was grown up by seeing if it could talk Dutch. The Dutchman, who at first felt as bad as the rest, to think that the child on whom he might be lavishing his love and affection might be the offspring of another, took happily the idea of the Irishman, and is resolved to return the one which has fallen to this lot, should he find it speaking Irish, when it is old enough to talk.

No. 103 Broad Street.

THE undersigned has the pleasure of informing the citizens of Bangor and vicinity that he has, at a very large outlay, established a Brewery for the manufacture of the best brands of Ale. The water used is from the famous Taylor spring and my malt and hops are of the best quality, thus ensuring the fullest flavors and the finest purity.—Believing the public will appreciate this home enterprise, I shall spare no pains to furnish an article which shall meet their entire approbation.

I shall also manufacture a desirable article of light Ale, specially for family use. My intention is to supply the trade but for the present I shall accommodate the public in such quantities as may be desired.

POOR RICHARD'S EYE AND EAR WATER.

This is the Best Preparation in the World!

READER, are you aware that every time you think, speak or act, you draw on your eyes for strength to do so? Now you are debtor to them, and if they have not arrested your body and shut it up in the prison of disease, remember they most assuredly will if you do not satisfy their claim (which is a small one) for all the services they render to you continually. They are crying to you for help—every blood streak is a voice. Hear their cry, and save yourself by saving them. Give them a drink of POOR RICHARD'S EYE WATER, Morning and Night. This is all they ask, and they will positively keep your body out of the prison house of disease. They do not want to lose time in explanations. Try them and prove them. By faithful perseverance, Deafness can be cured and prevented—Bathe both eyes and ears.

A Remarkable Cure in Bangor.

I, W. H. PRITCHARD, do certify that my wife Esther S., has had Weak Eyes from childhood, caused by measles. One year since a lump appeared on the lash of her eye. It increased to the size of a large pea. Becoming somewhat alarmed about the progress it was making I took my wife to Mrs. M. G. BROWN, at the Exchange. She told me she could remove it, and further strengthen her eyes. Mrs B. applied her medicine at seven o'clock in the evening, and at nine o'clock the lump was gone. We could see no more of it. My wife can now see people walking on the other side of the street which she could never do before. She has always had headache when riding in a carriage. Yesterday when riding in a carriage, she had no return of headache. My own eyes were treated two or three times by Mrs. Brown. I find them much strengthened. W. H. PRITCHARD, 159 Pine street.

Thousands of certificates might be added. Use POOR RICHARD and throw away your SPECTACLES.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

The Best Mechanical Paper in the World.

EIGHTEENTH YEAR.

Volume VIII. - - - New Series

A NEW VOLUME of this popular Journal commences on the first of January. It is published WEEKLY, and every number contains sixteen pages of useful information, and from five to ten original engravings of new inventions and discoveries, all of which are prepared expressly for its columns.

To the Mechanic and Manufacturer

No person engaged in any of the mechanical or manufacturing pursuits should think of "doing without" the Scientific American. It costs but six cents per week; every number contains from six to ten engravings of new machines and inventions, which can not be found in any other publication.

To the Inventor

The Scientific American is indispensable to every inventor, as it not only contains illustrated descriptions of nearly all the best inventions as they come out, but each number contains an Official List of the Claims of all the Patents issued from the United States Patent Office during the week previous, thus giving a correct history of the progress of inventions in this country. We are also receiving every week, the best scientific journals of Great Britain, France and Germany, thus placing in our possession all that is transpiring in mechanical science and art in these old countries. We shall continue to transfer to our columns copious extracts from these journals of whatever we may deem of interest to our readers.

A pamphlet of instruction as to the best mode of obtaining Letters Patent on new inventions, is furnished free on application.

Messrs. MUNN & Co. have acted as Patent Solicitors for more than seventeen years, in connection with the publication of the Scientific American, and they refer to 20,000 patentees for whom they have done business.

No charge is made for examining sketches and models of new inventions and for advising inventors as to their patentability.

Chemists, Architects, Millwrights and Farmers.

The Scientific American will be found a most useful Journal to them. All the new discoveries in the science of chemistry are given in its columns, and the interests of the architect and carpenter are not overlooked, all the new inventions and discoveries appertaining to these pursuits being published from week to week. Useful and practical information pertaining to the interests of millwrights and mill owners will be found in the Scientific American, which information they can not possibly obtain from any other source. Subjects in which farmers are interested will be found discussed in the Scientific American, most of the improvements in agricultural implements being illustrated in its columns.

TERMS.

To mail subscribers: Three Dollars a year, or One Dollar for four months. The volumes commence on the first of January and July. Specimen copies will be sent gratis to any part of the country.

Western and Canadian money or Post-office stamps taken at par for subscriptions. Canadian subscribers will please remit twenty-five cents extra on each year's subscription to prepay postage.

HUNNEWELL'S UNIVERSAL COUGH REMEDY.

BASES its real claims to the confidence of the public by its perfect simplicity, and freedom from every component which in any way places restraint on its use, Day or Night, by Old or Young, but to find the real secret of its true character and results, to which thousands can testify, by its being made the Pocket, Bedside or Nursery Companion of all, and the enemy to all Throat and Lung Complaints, by using it every hour, if necessary, or when there is the least tickling in the Throat, or disposition to Cough. By such freedom of use it

CURES

Coughs,
Colds,
Sore Throat,
Bronchial Complaints,
Hoarseness,

and all such, as when neglected end in

CONSUMPTION!

To Public Speakers and Singers it is most valuable, as it goes to the foundation, clears the Throat and prevents the prostration which follows great exertion.

As a Soothing Syrup its simplicity calls for special attention, as the most delicate infant may take it with the greatest freedom.

HUNNEWELL'S TOLU ANODYNE.

This Preparation, by its splendid results has shown the great necessity of a true Nervous and Spasmodic Remedy which goes to its work on all such complaints, completely relieving the pains, and leaving no stain of debility behind.

As most complaints of this nature proceed from inward causes, they are reached only through the stomach, and in most of them, time and money is wasted by the use of Liniments and Lotions.

Let this preparation be fairly tested and it will be found worthy the name and fame of a true

ANODYNE!

IT CURES

Neuralgia,
Rheumatism,
Gout,
Tooth Ache,
Ear Ache,
Nervous Head Ache,
Distress after eating,
Fits,
Histeria,
Nervousness,
Spinal Complaint,
St. Vitus Dance,
Cholera Morbus,
Pains in Stomach and Bowels

also the chief of all causes of disease and Insanity,

LOSS OF SLEEP!

To the Sleepless Invalid it gives the most refreshing sleep.

To Females, suffering the pains of Monthly Menstruation, it completely relieves while Nature's work is undisturbed. This is of great importance, as from these sources dates most, if not all wrecks to the Nervous System, and Chronic Female Complaints.

For Stomach, or Tape Worms, it is a sure remedy.

For children, when Teething, it completely soothes the pain, by diluting with milk and rubbing the Gums. When very severe give it in 5 to 10 drop doses in milk, and is a perfect relief.

HUNNEWELL'S ECLECTIC PILLS.

This Valuable and Simple PILL rests for character on being the true type of a CATHARTIC,—simple, though thorough in action, seldom requiring but a SINGLE PILL for a dose, or one at night and one at morning—acts without the least griping.

AND CURES

Dyspepsia,
Indigestion,
Billiousness,
Loss of Appetite,
Jaundice,
Humors, &c., &c.

For HEAD ACHE, when caused by a foul Stomach, they are a perfect relief.

For WORMS are a perfect remedy.

As a FAMILY PILL they have no superior.

American & Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, Washington (under the Act of 1837)

76 State Street, opposite Kilby Street

BOSTON.

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is more successful at the Patent Office than the subscriber, and as success is the best proof of advantages and ability, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents.

These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

JOHN TAGGART."

During eight months the subscriber in course of his large practice made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor by the Commissioner of Patents. R. H. EDDY.

IS THERE VIRTUE IN MRS. S. A. ALLEN'S WORLD'S HAIR RESTORER AND ZYLOBALSAMUM?

Convincing Testimony.

REV. C. A. BUCKBEE, Assistant Treasurer American Bible Union, N. Y. writes "I very cheerfully add my testimony to that of numerous friends to the great value of Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum."

REV. WM. CUTTER, N. Y. City: "My hair is changed to its natural color and growing on bald spots."

REV. J. H. CORNELL, N. Y. City: "I procured it for a relative. The falling of the hair stopped, and restored it from being grey to its natural and beautiful color."

REV. J. WEST, Brooklyn, L. I.: "I will testify to their value in the most liberal sense. They have restored my hair where it was bald, and where grey, to its original color."

REV. A. WEBSTER, Boston, Mass.: "I have used them with great effect. I am now neither bald nor grey. My hair was dry and brittle, it is now soft as in youth."

REV. H. V. DEGEN, Boston, Mass.: "That they promote the growth of the hair where baldness is, I have the evidence of my own eyes."
